Courses of Study.

The courses of study are the Liberal, the College Preparatory, and the Scientific.

The Liberal is designed for those who are fitting themselves for business life, and wish to complete their school studies at the Institute.

The College Preparatory embraces the studies requisite for admission to the best colleges.

The Scientific includes the studies necessary to enter the Scientific or Medical schools, the United States Military Academy at West Point, or the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Pupils not prepared to begin any of these courses, are carefully trained in Preparatory studies, or branches in which they are deficient.

The student's advancement depends upon his thoroughness.

 It will be understood that engagements with parents or guardians are for the school year, or balance of the year, unless otherwise specified and agreed to.

 Pupils who for any reason are allowed a discount, will pay full rates for the time they do attend, if they leave before the expiration of the time named in the agreement.

In order to make satisfactory progress pupils should enter on the first day, and remain during the entire year. No deduction will be made for absence during the first two or last two weeks, and at other times only for protracted personal illness.

School books and stationery are furnished by the Institute at regular retail prices.

Pupils must pay for all damages done by them to any of the school property.

Spending-money cannot be furnished the cadets, unless it has first been deposited with the Principal for that purpose.

General Information.

LOCATION.

Bordentown, the seat of the Institute, is a beautiful city of six thousand inhabitants, on the Delaware river. It is one hour and a half by rail from New York, forty-five minutes from Philadelphia, and only ten from Trenton, the Capital of the State. The Camden route of the Pennsylvania Railroad, connecting these cities, passes through Bordentown, and by its numerous trains affords convenient access. A steamer, also, plies daily between Bordentown and Philadelphia.

GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS.

The Institute grounds, located on Park street, comprise five acres, a part of which is a charming forest. They were originally a part of the great park, of historic interest, laid out and formerly occupied by Joseph Bonaparte, ex-King of Naples and of Spain. Across the street still remains a large portion of that park, bearing evidences of its former beauty. On the same street are the antiquated buildings of Madame Murat's boarding school, and the house of Francis Hopkinson, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Bordentown is also the seat of Bordentown Female College, a very flourishing institution for young ladies. Its location is one of the finest in the state. The Institute is only five minutes' walk from the depot, post office, telegraph office, bank, and churches, yet virtually retired. The building, so desirably placed, has comfortable room for sixty boarding and forty day pupils. The building is 36x100, and is four stories high, built of brick, heated by furnaces, and supplied with gas and hydrant water. Improved a year ago, it is now the most imposing edifice in the city.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION.

For promoting a vigorous physical development, and, at the same time, to train to an erect and graceful carriage, and cultivate habits of promptness and obedience, all cadets participate in regular drills of the U. S. Tactics. Its beneficial effects are marked. It is not the design to make soldiers, but to accomplish what is stated above.

The "Guard House" and other harsh modes of punishment for violation of rules are not resorted to. Young men are treated as gentlemen until they prove themselves to be otherwise.

The State of New Jersey has provided arms and equipments for the use of the Institute.

This department will, for the coming year, be under the direction of Col. Wm. R. Murphy, late Col. of the 10th Regt. N. J. Vols.

LECTURES.

Besides the Scientific Lectures given weekly in the Institute, arrangements are made for a popular course in the city each winter. This course is free to the students.

LITERARY SOCIETY.

A voluntary Literary Society is sustained by the pupils for improvement in composition and extemporaneous speaking, and practice in conducting public meetings. A teacher gives such instruction as is needed, but the meetings are conducted by the cadets.

READING ROOM.

In the Reading Room, pupils have access to daily and weekly papers and magazines, that they may inform themselves concerning current events, and cultivate a desire for knowledge of the world's progress.

DRAWING.

The Mechanical and Architectural Drawing taught is of a practical character, and trains the eye to view objects critically, and the hand to execute neatly and skillfully. Whatever business or profession a young man may choose, such study will prove to be of enduring value to him.

RELIGIOUS WORSHIP.

The school is Christian but not denominational. The pupils assemble daily for the reading of the Scriptures and for prayer. On the Sabbath they attend church in the morning, and a Sabbath-school at the Institute in the afternoon.

Visiting the pupils on the Sabbath, except by parents or guardians, is not permitted.

OUTFIT.

Each student will bring his Bible, and should also have a dictionary. He is required to furnish table napkins, napkin ring, fork, teaspoon, dessertspoon, towels, toilet articles, clothes bag, bed linen and blanket. He should also be provided with an umbrella and overshoes. Every article belonging to students should be marked with their full name. Articles unmarked with the student's name will not be received at the laundry.

The cadet suits are of dark blue broadcloth with suitable trimmings. They are very serviceable, and neat for all dress occasions. They are made to order and furnished to pupils at wholesale rates. No other suits need be provided.

Except on special occasions, ordinary suits may be worn if the student prefers.

VACATION.

As the resident Principal makes the Institute his home, pupils may remain during the summer vacation and receive board and care and also instruction if desired. The Institute and its surroundings constitute a very enjoyable place for boys, and some make it their home for the entire year.

CALENDAR FOR 1884-85.

The School Year is divided into two sessions:

The first begins Wednesday, September 10th, and ends December 24th.

The second begins January 7th, and ends June 17th.

Examinations of Classes, Monday and Tuesday, June 15th and 16th.

Annual meeting of the Board of Council, Tuesday, June 16th.

Military Review and Closing Exercises, Wednesday, June 17th.

General Remarks.

Many patrons of the Ladies' College expressed the desire to place their sons under our care. Said a home patron—"We need a school for boys in this city, conducted as you conduct the College."

To meet this demand, and to accomplish more wisely the great object of a liberal education, the Institute was established. The first year's experience fully proved the wisdom of the enterprise, and the success exceeded our most sanguine expectations. The number of boarders was more than doubled the second, and increased the third.

Our aim is to provide a pleasant home for the boys and young men entrusted to our care—to educate them in the most thorough manner for college or for life, and by all possible means secure in them correct moral habits.

To subserve specially this latter object, only boys of approved character will be admitted. Vicious or dissipated boys or boys of grossly immoral habits will not be received. While, under other circumstances, we would be willing to do all in our power to reform such, we must not subject good boys to their baneful influence. We are well aware that this restriction may retard, somewhat, the growth of the institution in point of numbers, but it will be but temporary. We shall gain in the end, when parents come to know our policy, and that it is maintained.

We would call attention to one most excellent feature of the Institute. Usually, military schools employ only male teachers; we employ both male and female. They live in the Institute, and eat at the table with the cadets. The refining influence of such a corps of teachers, mingling daily in school-room and at the table, must be most salutary, and, in our case, accounts for the superior character of the home-life of our students.

Our patrons will notice some changes in the Faculty.

Prof. Vincent, who ably filled the Department of Ancient Languages and Literature, sailed in June for a trip in Europe.

Col. S. E. Rusk, identified from its beginning with the Institute as Resident Principal and Commandant, having resigned that position with the view of engaging in Department work only, for which his tastes and training had specially fitted him, found it necessary, after the close of the year, to be relieved in order to give his personal attention to his private business affairs.
